How does the OFCF help the fire service?

OFCF offers a number of beneficial services and opportunities. All are focused on supporting the good work of fire and emergency service organizations and their leaders:

Supporting the Oregon Fallen Firefighters Memorial

Providing scholarships that allow fire chiefs from rural, cash-strapped agencies to attend conferences; allowing them access to training and networking that gives them critical skills and knowledge

Offering emergency assistance to chief fire officers experiencing personal crises

Providing qualified fire organizations such as the Oregon Fire Service Honor Guard and volunteer fire associations, a tax-exempt option to place donations for life-saving equipment and resources

Lending support to the Oregon Fire Service Museum, Memorial, and Learning Center.

How do I access OFCF services?

To inquire about OFCF services, call the OFCA office at 1-888-846-5741, or email us at ofca@ofca.org. Additional information is also available at www.ofca.org in the OFCF section.

If your fire defense board, association, or other organization would like to hear more about the Foundation, or discuss partnerships, call to arrange to have an OFCF representative meet with your group.

How can I help the Oregon Fire Chiefs Foundation?

The OFCF conducts fundraising events such as golf tournaments, raffles, and more. Your participation helps.

Direct donations are needed to support the work of the foundation. If you know of a company or person who would be interested in supporting the Foundation's programs please let us know.

We encourage you to support the Foundation and encourage others in your organization to do the same.
